Four FCIAC wrestlers reached the finals, Jakob Camacho won an individual title, and the Danbury Hatters captured the team championship at the 53rd Annual New England Interscholastic Wrestling Championships, held this weekend in Providence, R.I.

It's the fourth championship this postseason for Danbury, Connecticut's top-ranked team. The Hatters won the FCIAC, CIAC Class LL, and State Open crowns before winning the New England tournament on Saturday.

Danbury won the title by nearly 50 points, scoring 114, with Newtown a distant second with 67 points. Mt. Anthony of Vermont, which defeated the Hatters in a dual meet earlier this winter, was third with 62.5 points.

Camacho had a brilliant tournament in the 120-pound weight class, going 4-0 while winning each of his first three matches by at least 13 points. He then pinned Andy Richard of Lincoln-Sudbury in Mass. at 5:08 to take the crown.

Camacho's teammate Ryan Jack finished as the runner-up at 106 pounds, and New Canaan's Tyler Sung and Warde's Tim Kane were runners-up at 126 and 138, respectively.

In all, nine FCIAC wrestlers placed in the top six, including five from Danbury.

Danbury's Alan Kovacs (138 pounds) and Trumbull's Michael Mirmina (145) were third; Trumbull's Tristan Haviland (126) and Danbury's Michael Gaboardi (285) were fourth; and Danbury's Gino Baretta (160) was sixth.
