The New Canaan Rams' terrific performance in last weekend's FCIAC wrestling tournament dominates the latest Rams by the Numbers, which also takes a look at the upcoming girls and boys ice hockey postseason, and a hard-earned victory for the New Canaan girls basketball team.

3 Weight class champions for the New Canaan Rams at last weekend's Joe Sikorski FCIAC wrestling championships at NCHS. Senior Nick Kortman (220 pounds), sophomore Tyler Sung (138), and freshman Justin Mastroianni (126) all claimed titles, and junior Jack Stewart (285) finished as a runner-up. The three champs ranks in a first-place tie for the most in program history.

1995 The last year in which the New Canaan wrestling team had three champions. That season's champs were Phil Kim, Winston Ohrn, and Brett Wilderman, with Kasra Ajir and Brian Wilderman finishing in runner-up spots. The five finalists that season is a program record, with this season's four ranking second.

6-2 Score of Nick Kortman's win over Danbury's Montez Osbey in the 220-pound final. Kortman made the finals last winter, but finished as the runner-up, before taking the crown this season.

6-4 Score of Justin Mastroianni's semifinal victory over Danbury's Jakob Camacho. Camacho, who is ranked in the top five nationally, was the No. 1 seed and heavily-favored to win the 126-pound championship, but Mastroianni scored the final five points of their match to get the win.

5-1 Score of Tyler Sung's victory over Trumbull's Matt Ryan in the 138-pound final. Sung was extremely efficient while going 3-0 in the tournament, winning his first two matches with a 59-second pinfall, and a 6-0 shutout.

7 FCIAC semifinalists for the New Canaan wrestling team. In addition to the four finalists, the Rams had senior Luigi DeRubeis (132 pounds), and juniors Nate (145) and Christian (152) Sibbett, all co-captains, in the semis.

16-3 Record of the New Canaan girls ice hockey team with one game remaining in the regular season. The Rams, who fell to Greenwich 2-1 on Monday, will likely be the No. 2 seed and play rival Darien in the FCIAC semifinals next Wednesday, Feb. 21, at the Darien Ice House. New Canaan won its two regular-season clashes with the Wave, 2-1 and 2-0.

4-4 Conference record of the New Canaan boys ice hockey team after Saturday's 6-1 victory over Trumbull. The Rams have yet to clinch a spot in the FCIAC playoffs, but can punch their ticket by winning their last three league games against Wilton, St. Joseph and Norwalk/McMahon.

40-27 Score of the New Canaan Rams' victory over the Brien McMahon Senators in girls hoops on Tuesday. The win ended a 10-game losing streak for the Rams, who improved to 4-15. Senior Maeve Selvaggi and sophomore Jane Charlton led the offense with 13 points apiece.
